OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION 2

Change in the Regatta Schedule

Based on weather forecasts from the Croatian Meteorological Institute, adverse weather is expected on Sunday 2 May which would bring high winds and strong gusts creating probably unequal and potentially unrowable racing conditions. The Executive Committee has reviewed the options in Rule 63 and the stakeholder impact in particular, it noted the fact that it is two weeks to go to the Final Olympic Qualification Regatta and many critical decisions about crews are going to be based on performances here. They have also considered the lack of racing opportunities over the last 18 months for these crews. The weather forecast for Saturday remains good. Therefore, on an exceptional basis, in order not to risk a disruption or suspension of racing Sunday due to this expected adverse weather, the races planned for Sunday will be advanced to Saturday afternoon. Racing on Saturday will start at 10:00 hrs with Semi-finals and followed by finals D, C and B (non Semi-final events). Afternoon session would start at 12:15 hrs with Final Bs, followed by Final As from 12:32 hrs. A new schedule has been published.
